Graduate School of Information Sciences
2017 Two-Year Master's Program Admission Guidelines
(April 2017 Admissions)

Examination dates: 1-3 March 2017

November 2016

The Graduate School of Information Sciences (GSIS) consists of four departments: Computer and Mathematical Sciences, System Information Sciences, Human-Social Information Sciences and Applied Information Sciences.

GSIS aims not only to conduct cutting-edge education and research within these various academic disciplines, but also to advance wide-ranging interdisciplinary research. Students can therefore opt to engage in areas other than their original speciality. We welcome applications from ambitious individuals aspiring to create "Information Science" for the new era.'

Admission Policy

To foster individuals who can contribute to GSIS's goal of creating "New Information Science," we promote the acceptance of students who aim to further develop the fruits GSIS has reaped so far, students who aspire to actively pursue research across a range of disciplines, students hoping to broaden their research area, and overseas students and mature students from diverse backgrounds.

Assistance Program for Doctoral Students

As of FY2006, GSIS has been operating an assistance program for doctoral students with the aim of providing economic support and a suitable learning environment for graduate students with a high level of specialization.

<For details, please contact GSIS Educational Affairs Section [Kyoumu Kakari].>

Screening will entail in principle a holistic assessment of the applicant's basic academic ability and work experience and research content as a working member of society based on a short essay, oral examination and documentation screening. Emphasis will also be placed on the relationship between the research area in which the candidate wishes to major and their work and research experience to date.

The content of the examination in each area of speciality is as described in pp.16-17.

6. Examination venues and schedules

(1) Schedules for entrance examinations.

Examinations will be held by specialized subject group over 1 March – 3 March 2017 according to the schedule on pp.9-17.

8. Application for Long-Term Study System

GSIS can, based on the results of a review, give permission for a student to complete their study program (Note 12) systematically over a period of more than two years, which is the standard completion period, in response to circumstances such as the student's having a job (Note 11). Students to whom this system is applied are called "long-term students."

GSIS will engage in consultation in relation to this system at any point in time. Details of application methods will be contained in the documentation on admission procedures sent out after the announcement of successful applicants.

Note 11: Students eligible for the long-term student system are: (i) full-time employees at companies, etc., or those who are self-employed; (ii) those needing time away for childbirth, childcare or nursing care, etc.; and (iii) other persons deemed eligible by GSIS.

Note 12: The term of study cannot extend past four years. However, students can request that the permitted term of study be shortened. In principle, there will be no special curriculum set for long-term students.
