Three-year Doctoral Program Admission Guidelines
(April 2027 Admissions)

Examination Schedule:
[Schedule I] (Group 1, 5, 6, 7): 30 - 31 January, 2027
[Schedule II] (Group 2, 3, 4): 2 - 4 March, 2027

Admission Policy

The Tohoku University Graduate School of Information Sciences (GSIS) aims to develop researchers and professionals who possess advanced expertise in information science based on an interdisciplinary outlook on science that encompasses mathematics and social science. We expect researchers and professionals to be always sensitive to the demands of society, discover problems on their own, and promote concrete solutions to problems, by utilizing their expertise, which is based on the integration of the humanities and sciences. To develop persons who contribute to the creation of new value in "Information Science" that the GSIS aims to achieve, we seek diverse students, including students who want to deepen their studies based on our accumulated achievements in various fields, students who want to actively pursue research in interdisciplinary fields, students who want to pursue research in new fields different from their previous research field, international students whom we expect to have different backgrounds from Japanese students, and mature students who are employed persons working at companies, institutes or other places.

Specifically, we seek students who are eager to become professionals capable of contributing to society by utilizing their expertise based on interdisciplinary and fundamental ability in mathematics and science, and students who are eager to become researchers who can contribute to further development of interdisciplinary science.

To this end, we have various types of admission options in the following categories: general admission, early graduate admission, mature student admission, international student admission, and special selection for recommended admission. The selection process is divided into seven “groups” according to the academic specialties within the GSIS, and in each group, the selection method is appropriately chosen and determined from written examinations, essays, and oral examinations depending on the characteristics of each group in the two-year Master's Course and three-year Doctoral Course.

(Three-Year Doctoral Course)

In the general transfer-admission, continuing students from other graduate schools in Tohoku University, and transfer-admission for international students, we evaluate the applicant's specialized knowledge and ability to apply their knowledge to problems, as well as research content and research plans in the Master's Course, with particular emphasis on past research achievements and future potential as an interdisciplinary researcher.

In the selection process for transfer-admission for mature students, we evaluate their work history as employed persons, research content, and basic academic skills, with particular emphasis on their research plans and motivation.

Before entering the university, students are expected to have general knowledge of the field in which they intend to study, including the latest research trends; skills in researching, collecting, and organizing materials and literature necessary for their research; and the ability to develop an original academic argument based on this knowledge and information.

Comprehensive support package for Doctoral Students

Tohoku University significantly expanded its comprehensive support package for doctoral students starting in April 2026. This initiative aims to cultivate outstanding researchers who will thrive on the global stage and produce next-generation highly specialized professionals who will drive social innovation, ensuring a promising career path for them.

Incentive Stipend (Standard Track): All eligible doctoral students (subject to conditions*) receive JPY 1,272,000 per year. Incentive Stipend (DP-Track): Exceptionally outstanding students affiliated with the graduate degree programs receive JPY 2,400,000 per year. A wide range of support options is available. We encourage you to take the next step toward enrolling in a doctoral program. Please refer to the following page for details.

4. Admission method

1) Continuing students from the GSIS
Admission will be based upon results from the two-year master's program, an individual assessment, etc.

2) Continuing students from other graduate schools of Tohoku University and applicants for transfer-admission for international students
In principle, admission will be based upon a combination of written examinations (in the case of mature students, short essay, or equivalent), an oral examination, their academic transcript and other submitted documents.
Applicants must select the laboratory (field) in which they wish to be assigned first by referring to the "List of Laboratories (Fields)" (pp.18 -21) and the Graduate School website (https://www.is.tohoku.ac.jp/en/laboratory/), and take the written and oral examinations for the specialized subject group of that laboratory (field). (See *). (Some groups do not conduct the written examination.)
The group number, laboratory number, and major are shown in Table-1. The content of the examination for each subject group is shown in pp.12 - (Schedule I) and pp.15 - (Schedule II).
If you are an applicant from another graduate school of Tohoku University and the faculty member who will be accepting you into the graduate school of the university is a member of the examining committee for your master's thesis, the results of your graduate school may be substituted for the written examination.

* Aside from the above, the following examination methods can also be chosen. Those wishing to be examined using the above methods must consult with the GSIS Educational Affairs Section and prospective supervisor by 16 November 2026.

The written examination is taken in the other specialized examination subject groups.
This method may not be permitted depending on the reason.

- Applicants for Exam Schedule I (Groups 1, 5, 6, and 7) may not select Exam Schedule II (Groups 2, 3, and 4) as the group to take the written examination. Likewise, applicants who belong to Exam Schedule II (Groups 2, 3, 4) may not select Exam Schedule I (Groups 1, 5, 6, and 7) as the group to take the written examination.
- Since the Mathematics group (Group 1) does not have a written examination, it is not possible to select the Mathematics group as the group to take the written examination. In addition, applicants for the Mathematics group cannot choose this examination method.
- The Civil Engineering group (Group 4) and the Language and Media group (Group 5) do not have a written examination (specialized subjects), so it is not possible to select these groups as the group to take the written examination. In addition, applicants for the Civil Engineering group and the Language and Media group cannot choose this examination method.

(1) Examination Schedule
Schedule I will be held from 30 to 31 January, 2027, and Schedule II will be held from 2 to 4 March, 2027, according to the schedule on pp.12 -17 for each subject group.

(2) Examination Venue and Time
You will be notified of the test site and details when you receive your examination voucher from the TAO system.
For the date and time of the examinations, please refer to "Examination Schedule and Content for each Subject Group" below (pp. 12 -17).

3) Transfer-admission for mature students

In principle, those applying for admission as a mature student should have been employed for two or more years as technicians, teachers or researchers in public office, schools or companies, etc. The aim is for mature students to exploit their workplace experience in their learning and research, refresh and advance their knowledge and skills, or to acquire knowledge and skills in new areas, advancing their creative abilities.

In principle, the selection process will be based on a comprehensive evaluation of the applicant’s basic academic ability and work experience and research content as a working member of society based on a short essay, oral examination and documentation screening. Emphasis will be placed on the relationship between the research area in which the candidate wishes to major and the applicant's previous work and research history.

The content of the examinations for each subject group is as described on p.14 (Schedule I) and p.17 (Schedule II).

5. Announcement of successful applicants

The examination code numbers of successful applicants will be posted on the website of the Graduate School at around 5:00 p.m. on 5 February, 2027 for Schedule I, and at around 5:00 p.m. on 9 March, 2027 for Schedule II. (https://www.is.tohoku.ac.jp/)

Successful applicants will be notified of the results via the TAO system.

6. Application for Long-Term Study System

The GSIS can, based on the results of a review, give permission for a student to complete their study program (Note 11) systematically over a period of more than two years, which is the standard completion period, in response to circumstances such as the student's having a job (Note 10). Those who are eligible for this system are called "long-term students."

Inquiries about this system can be made at any time, but information about how to apply for this system will be provided in the documents regarding admission procedures that will be sent after the announcement of successful applicants.

Note 10: Students eligible for the long-term student system are: (i) full-time employees at companies, etc., or those who are self-employed; (ii) those needing time away for childbirth, childcare or nursing care, etc.; and (iii) other persons deemed eligible by the GSIS.

Note 11: The term of study cannot extend past four years. However, students can request that the permitted term of study be shortened. In principle, there will be no special curriculum set for long-term students.

7. Continuing and transfer-admission procedures

We will inform each applicant of continuing and transfer procedures will be provided after the issuance of the letter of acceptance. The admission procedure period is from 10 to 15 March, 2027. (Excluding Saturday and Sunday)
