Two-Year Master's Program Admission Guidelines
(April 2024 Admissions)

Examination Schedule:

[Schedule I] (Group 1, 5, 6, 7): 3 February (Sat.) - 4 February (Sun.), 2024

[Schedule II] (Group 2, 3, 4): 28 February (Wed.) - March 1 (Fri.), 2024

Admission Policy

The Tohoku University Graduate School of Information Sciences (GSIS) aims to develop researchers and professionals who possess advanced expertise in information science based on an interdisciplinary outlook on science that encompasses mathematics and social science. We expect researchers and professionals to be always sensitive to the demands of society, discover problems on their own, and promote concrete solutions to problems, by utilizing their expertise, which is based on the integration of the humanities and sciences. To develop persons who contribute to the creation of new value in "Information Science" that the GSIS aims to achieve, we seek diverse students, including students who want to deepen their studies based on our accumulated achievements in various fields, students who want to actively pursue research in interdisciplinary fields, students who want to pursue research in new fields different from their previous research field, international students whom we expect to have different backgrounds from Japanese students, and mature students who are employed persons working at companies, institutes or other places.

Specifically, we seek students who are eager to become professionals capable of contributing to society by utilizing their expertise based on interdisciplinary and fundamental ability in mathematics and science, and students who are eager to become researchers who can contribute to further development of interdisciplinary science.

To this end, we have various types of admission options in the following categories: general admission, early graduate admission, mature student admission, international student admission, and special selection for recommended admission. The selection process is divided into seven "groups" according to the academic specialties within the GSIS, and in each group, the selection method is appropriately chosen and determined from written examinations, essays, and oral examinations depending on the characteristics of each group in the two-year Master's Course and three-year Doctoral Course.

(Two-Year Master's Course)

In the general admission, early graduate admission, and international student admission, the applicant will take a written examination that evaluates their specialized knowledge and ability to apply their knowledge to problems, and an oral examination based on the applicant's research plans and research motivation, with special emphasis on basic academic skills.

In the mature student admission, a comprehensive evaluation of the applicant's work history, research content, and basic academic skills will be conducted.

In the special selection for recommended admission, we evaluate the applicant's ability to think logically, writing ability, research plans, and motivation for research.

Before entering the university, students are expected to have acquired basic knowledge in their major field of study and adjacent fields, as well as the skills necessary to systematically prepare presentations of their research results.

Assistance Program for Doctoral Students

As of FY2006, the GSIS provides an assistance program for doctoral students with the aim of providing economic support and a suitable learning environment for high achieving graduate students.

Please refer to p.12 - p.17 regarding the details of the examination requirements for each subject group.

1) International Students Admission

Applicants must select the laboratory (field) in which they wish to be assigned first by referring to the "List of Laboratories (Fields)" (p.18 - p.21) and the Graduate School website (<https://www.is.tohoku.ac.jp/en/laboratory/>) and take the written and oral examinations for the specialized subject group of that laboratory (field). (See *). (Some groups do not conduct the written examination.) Subject group codes, laboratory codes and departments are shown in Table 1.

The content of the examination for each subject group is shown in p.12 -to p.13 (Schedule I) and p.15 to p.16 (Schedule II).

* Aside from the above, the following examination methods can also be chosen.

Method 1: The written examination is taken in the other specialized examination subject groups.

(This method may not be permitted depending on the reason why the applicant is choosing to take the examination by this method (1).)

- Applicants for Exam Schedule I (Groups 1, 5, 6, and 7) cannot select Exam Schedule II (Groups 2, 3, and 4) as the group to take the written examination. Likewise, applicants for Exam Schedule II (Groups 2, 3, 4) cannot select Exam Schedule I (Groups 1, 5, 6, and 7) as the group to take the written examination.
- Since the Mathematics group (Group 1) does not have a written examination, it is not possible to select the Mathematics group as the group to take the written examination. In addition, applicants for the Mathematics group cannot choose this examination method.
- The Language and Media group (Group 5) does not have a written examination (specialized subjects), so it is not possible to select the Language and Media group as the group to take the written examination. In addition, applicants for the Language and Media group cannot choose this examination method.

Method 2: The written examination is taken according to subjects that are not in the specialized examination subject groups of the GSIS. (It may not be possible to comply with some subjects.)

Method 3: In lieu of the above written and oral examinations, the examination is taken related to your background (written examination, essay, oral examination, foreign language subject (English), etc.). (Depending on the prior screening of documents, some applicants may not be allowed to take the examination in this way.)

Those who wish to take those examination methods must contact the GSIS Educational Affairs Section and the prospective supervisor by 17 November (Fri.), 2023.

2) Mature student admission

In principle, those applying for admission as a mature student should have been employed for two or more years as technicians, teachers or researchers in public office, schools or companies, etc. The aim is for mature students to exploit their workplace experience in their learning and research, refresh and advance their knowledge and skills, or to acquire knowledge and skills in new areas, advancing their creative abilities.

In principle, the selection process will be based on a comprehensive evaluation of the applicant's basic academic ability and work experience and research content as a working member of society based on a short essay, oral examination and documentation screening. Emphasis will be placed on the relationship between the research area in which the candidate wishes to major and the applicant's previous work and research history.

The content of the examinations for each subject group is as described on p.14 (Schedule I) and p.17 (Schedule II).

5. Examination Schedule and Venue

(1) Examination Schedule

Schedule I will be held from 3 February (Sat.) to 4 February (Sun.), 2024, and Schedule II will be held from February 28 (Wed.) to March 1 (Fri.), 2024, according to the schedule on p.12 to p.17 for each subject group.

(2) Examination Venue and Time

You will be notified of the test site and details when you receive your examination voucher from the TAO system.

For the date and time of the examinations, please refer to "Examination Schedule and Content for each Subject Group" below (p. 12 - 17).

6. Announcement of successful applicants

The examination code numbers of successful applicants will be posted on the website of the Graduate School at around 5:00 p.m. on 9 February (Fri.), 2024 for Schedule I, and at around 5:00 p.m. on 8 March (Fri), 2024 for Schedule II. (<https://www.is.tohoku.ac.jp/>)

Successful applicants will be notified of the results via the TAO system.

7. Application for Long-Term Study System

The GSIS can, based on the results of a review, give permission for a student to complete their study program (Note 11) systematically over a period of more than two years, which is the standard completion period, in response to circumstances such as the student's having a job (Note 10). Those who are eligible for this system are called "long-term students."

Inquiries about this system can be made at any time, but information about how to apply for this system will be provided in the documents regarding admission procedures that will be sent after the announcement of successful applicants.

Note 10: Students eligible for the long-term student system are: (i) full-time employees at companies, etc., or those who are self-employed; (ii) those needing time away for childbirth, childcare or nursing care, etc.; and (iii) other persons deemed eligible by the GSIS.

Note 11: The term of study cannot extend past four years. However, students can request that the permitted term of study be shortened. In principle, there will be no special curriculum set for long-term students.

8. Admission procedures

Details of the admission procedure will be provided after the issuance of the letter of acceptance. The procedure is due mid-March 2024.
